

Dallas Burns, Megan Quinn, and Amber Stanley were arrested after having a food fight at Taco Bell. All women accused each other of stealing Nachos from each other's plate. This is an ongoing investigation. Someone overheard one of the women saying "This 'NACHO' day" as they were being placed in the car.

Ramona Bonner was arrested after throwing her phone in the ocean. The charge was for a salt in battery.

Roy McDonald was arrested after he falsely reported a bottle of water was wanted in three states – as he hung up the phone, the police heard him laughing and saying "Solid, liquid, and gas."

Cassie Tilley was arrested for a bad joke. She dropped her ritz cracker in her store-bought snack-pack pudding. She was telling everyone afterwards that she was "pudding on the ritz".

Ranell Wellman was arrested for resisting arrest. A police officer knocked on her door and asked where she was between 5 and 6. Ranell responded Kindergarten.

Gail Clemons was arrested after being pulled over. The officer noticed her eyes were bloodshot and asked, "Have you been drinking?" Gail looked back into his eyes and said, "Have you been eating donuts"? And that is how the fight started.

Sara Haddox was pulled over on her motorcycle. She asked why and the officer said you cannot transport 6 people at one time on a motorcycle! Sara replied – "Did you say six?". "Yes ma'am – 6!" Sara quickly turned around and quickly said "Dangit – we should have 7 – where is Rhonda"

Rhonda and Drew Mason were charged with spiking the punch at a Halloween party. Drew was dressed as a mime. At the time of the arrest, Rhonda was hollering "Do you still have to tell him he has the right to remain silent!"

Karen Edwards was at the same Halloween party. She is the one who brought the "spike" for the punch. She tried to help Rhonda and Drew but found herself getting arrested too. She was dressed as a clown and they told her "not to try anything funny".

Tammy Standifer is still on the loose. Someone keeps breaking into the police station and stealing all the toilets. The police say they have nothing to go on.

Judge Pat Totten scolded Ray Ortiz – "I thought I said I never wanted to see you in here again." Ray replied – "That is what I kept telling the arresting officer, but he wouldn't listen".

When Terry Lambright noticed all his staff was locked up in jail, he started banging on the front of the jail cells to please indict him over and over. Finally, Terry was arrested. For three days Terry celebrated in his jail cell that he was finally indicted. On day 4, Mr. Skinner arrived to bail Terry out and explained to Terry there was a difference between indict and induct.